REY LEÓN

Kenny Alfonso Triumphs in a Thrilling Encounter at Fountain City Pro's First Ever Match

In an electrifying match that will be remembered as a classic confrontation in the annals of wrestling, "Second to None" Kenny Alfonso squared off against "The Illustrious" Rey Leon, who was flanked by his ever-present associate, Dicki Richards, at the Ball Event Center.

The atmosphere was electric from the outset, with the crowd vocally divided. Rey Leon, ever the provocateur, was met with a chorus of boos, a testament to his talent for playing the villain. In stark contrast, Kenny Alfonso received a hero's welcome, his entrance underscored by chants of his name, signaling the crowd's anticipation for an unforgettable showdown

As the match commenced, the air was thick with chants of "This is awesome!"—a preemptive accolade for the spectacle that was about to unfold. The two gladiators began cautiously, gauging each other's strategies, but it wasn't long before the pace accelerated, transforming the ring into a whirlwind of athleticism and strategy.

Rey Leon's retreat from the ring, a tactical maneuver to regroup, was met with Kenny Alfonso's defiant "line in the sand," a physical and symbolic challenge that Leon could not ignore. The ensuing exchange of moves saw both competitors showcase their prowess, but it was Alfonso's resilience that shone brightly, especially when overcoming the underhanded tactics of Dicki Richards, who sought to tilt the match in Leon's favor.

A beautifully executed suplex by Alfonso was a highlight, displaying his technical skill and raw power. Rey Leon's mockery of the crowd's support for Alfonso only fueled the competitive fire, leading to a sequence of moves that had the audience on the edge of their seats.

The match reached its climax following a chaotic exchange that saw Dicki Richards' attempt to interfere backfire spectacularly, setting the stage for Kenny Alfonso to deliver his signature "Sliced Bread" finisher. The pin-fall that followed was not just a victory over Rey Leon; it was a triumph of sportsmanship, skill, and heart.

Kenny Alfonso's victory at the Ball Event Center is a testament to his moniker, "2nd to None." His performance, against the formidable "Illustrious One" and under the shadow of interference, showcased the very essence of wrestling: a blend of athleticism, strategy, and an indomitable will to succeed, as well as a testament to the organization's promising future and its commitment to showcasing wrestling at its finest.

A Clash of Tactics and Technique:

ACFC & Heidi Howitzer Triumph in Explosive Tag Team Match

In an electrifying display of athleticism and camaraderie, the alliance of ACFC & Heidi Howitzer squared off against the formidable team of Technical Difficulties & Tootie Lynn in a match that had fans at the edge of their seats from start to finish. This 3-on-3 tag team encounter was not just a battle of strength but a showcase of the diverse skill sets and unique personalities that make wrestling an unparalleled spectacle.

As the competitors entered the arena, the air was thick with anticipation. Tootie Lynn, seizing the moment, dazzled the crowd with her mastery of nunchucks, hinting at the depth of the martial arts prowess she would bring into the ring. The initial exchange between the teams was marked by a display of sportsmanship among the men, with handshakes that spoke to the mutual respect shared between competitors. However, the tension was palpable between Heidi Howitzer and Tootie Lynn, as what began as heated words quickly escalated into a physical altercation, setting the stage for a clash that would be as much about personal vendettas as it was about athletic excellence.

The match kicked off with Heidi and Tootie Lynn facing off, showcasing a dynamic exchange of moves. Tootie's agility and martial arts skills were on full display as she executed snap sidekicks, only for Heidi to counter with her brute strength, setting the tone for a match that would be filled with moments of technical prowess and raw power. The tag to Tommy 2 Good of ACFC brought a new level of intensity to the match, with a series of suplexes that had the crowd roaring in approval.

As the action unfolded, each athlete had their moment to shine. Austin Reddick's knife-hand chops, Moses the Deliverer's resilience, and Raheem De La Suede's charismatic antics added layers to a match that was as much about individual moments of glory as it was about team strategy. The assault on Tommy 2 Good by all three members of the opposing team highlighted the chaos and unpredictability that tag team matches bring to the wrestling world.

The climax of the match saw an impressive flurry of suplexes from all combatants, a testament to the technical skill and physical conditioning of the wrestlers. De La Suede's missed frog splash, a moment of high drama, exemplified the high-risk, high-reward nature of their profession. Yet, it was Heidi Howitzer's cunning and power that ultimately decided the match.

Her counter of Tootie Lynn's roundhouse kick with a devastating stunner led to the pinfall that secured victory for her team.

This match was more than a display of athleticism; it was a narrative of rivalry, respect, and the relentless pursuit of victory. Each competitor brought their best to the ring, contributing to a spectacle that will be remembered for its intensity, technical skill, and the sheer passion displayed by all involved.

As ACFC & Heidi Howitzer celebrated their hard-fought victory, fans were left with no doubt about the talent and dedication of the wrestlers within the organization.

The match was a microcosm of what makes wrestling an enduring and beloved sport: the combination of physicality, strategy, personality, and storytelling. As the organization looks to the future, matches like these are a promising indication of the thrilling encounters and emerging rivalries that await.

The Fountain City Invitational Scramble:

Six Men Put it All on the Line to Advance Towards the Gold

In a breathless display of chaos and charisma, the Fountain City Pro Invitational Scramble set a new standard for multi-competitor matches, leaving fans both awe-struck and clamoring for more. This free-for-all featured six of the toughest and most agile wrestlers in the promotion: "Handsome" Scott Hansen, "Death Wish" Anakin Murphy, Scott Tyler, "The Realest" Calvin Aldridge, Wrex Amadeus, and "Black Diamond" Luke Langley. The stakes were high as the winner would receive a first-round bye in the upcoming tournament to crown the first Fountain City Pro Champion.

As the bell rang, the disdain was palpable; Anakin Murphy's blatant disrespect to Luke Langley set a tone of animosity and fierce competition. The opening exchanges were brutal, with each wrestler looking to stamp their authority on the match. Wrex Amadeus, after flaunting his ego, received a stinging chop from Murphy, igniting a frenzy of moves from all competitors.

Luke Langley's super-kick on Scott Hansen marked the beginning of outright hostilities, as the ring became a battlefield of flying elbows, devastating suplexes, and tactical retreats. Partnerships were transient, respect was fleeting, and every man was for himself.

The match ebbed and flowed with spectacular spots: Scott Tyler and Anakin Murphy's ballet of kicks and dodges culminated in a rare moment of mutual respect, only to be shattered by Calvin Aldridge's opportunistic assault. Outside the ring, Wrex Amadeus and Scott Hansen brawled ferociously, but it was inside the squared circle that the most breathtaking maneuvers were executed, including Hansen's aerial exploits and Aldridge's powerful boots.

The sequence of eliminations began with tactical brilliance and opportunistic pin-falls. Wrex Amadeus first dispatched Hansen with a cunning roll-up, only to be outsmarted seconds later by Aldridge in a similar fashion. The rapid thinning of the field added a layer of desperate intensity to the match as the remaining competitors vied for the crucial bye.

The drama reached its peak when Scott Tyler and Anakin Murphy, having cleared the ring, launched themselves in a spectacular double suicide dive onto their adversaries outside. Back in the ring, the high-flying offenses and heart-stopping counters continued, with Murphy showcasing his resilience and aerial prowess.

However, it was the cunning and sheer brute force of Luke Langley that ultimately prevailed. After a series of grueling exchanges, strategic counters, and punishing blows, Langley managed to outlast and outmaneuver Scott Tyler in a thrilling final showdown. His last-minute reversal and subsequent brain-buster sealed a hard-fought victory.

Luke Langley's triumph in the Fountain City Pro Invitational Scramble not only secures him a first-round bye but also positions him as a formidable force in the upcoming tournament. His combination of strength, agility, and tactical acumen makes him a standout competitor and a favorite to become the inaugural Fountain City Pro Champion.

As the dust settles, the "Black Diamond" stands tall, his victory a testament to his resilience and wrestling intellect. Fans and competitors alike now look forward to the tournament, where alliances will be tested, rivalries will be born, and a champion will emerge. This match was a perfect appetizer, whetting the appetite for the fierce competition and dramatic storytelling that Fountain City Pro promises to deliver.

The Main Event Battle of the Titans:

“All Steel” J Fowler Squares Off Against “The Quadfather” Camaro Jackson

In the main event that capped off an electrifying evening of wrestling, “All Steel” J Fowler, alongside the ever-provocative Captain Midnight Guthrie, took on the formidable “The Quadfather” Camaro Jackson in a bout that had the audience on the edge of their seats from start to finish. The high stakes and intense rivalry provided a perfect climax to the night, delivering drama, athleticism, and raw power.

The air was thick with tension as J Fowler and Midnight Guthrie made their entrance, immediately inciting the crowd by tearing up a sign from a young fan—an act that set the tone for their ruthless approach. Fowler's imposing presence was matched by Camaro Jackson's, whose entry was met with roaring support from the crowd, chanting his name in unison.

The match started with aggressive maneuvers as Fowler used underhanded tactics, feigning a lockup to land a harsh kick to Jackson's gut. But Jackson, not to be underestimated, responded with a powerful shoulder tackle that sent Fowler scrambling outside the ring to regroup. The battle saw both men exchanging high-impact moves, with Fowler aiming to dismantle Jackson's strength by targeting his limbs.

As the match intensified, Captain Midnight Guthrie's interference became a pivotal factor, striking Jackson while the referee was distracted, giving Fowler the chance to lock in an arm bar and further wear down his opponent. The duel between Fowler and Jackson continued to escalate, marked by a series of punishing blows and high-flying moves that showcased their wrestling prowess.

A crucial moment came when Fowler, seizing an opportunity, delivered a big boot followed by a stunning hurricanrana. However, Jackson's resilience shone through as he countered Fowler's aerial assault with a devastating

In the final moments, Fowler tried to capitalize on the distraction with another submission attempt, but Jackson's determination and strength allowed him to reverse into a roll-up, securing a surprising pin-fall victory despite the physical toll he had endured.

The match's conclusion was marred by unsportsmanlike conduct as Fowler and Guthrie launched a post-match attack on an exhausted Jackson. This chaotic scene was quickly interrupted by Kenny Alfonso, who rushed to the ring to aid Jackson, chasing off the assailants and ensuring the night ended on a note of justice.

This main event was not just a testament to the skill and heart of Camaro Jackson but also highlighted the darker tactics of J Fowler and Midnight Guthrie, setting the stage for future confrontations. The interference by Guthrie, the resilience of Jackson, and the heroic save by Kenny Alfonso added layers to the narrative, enriching the ongoing saga of rivalry and camaraderie in Fountain City Pro Wrestling.

Fans left the arena buzzing with excitement and anticipation for what's next, as the storylines continue to evolve and rivalries deepen. This match solidified the reputations of its participants and promised more thrilling encounters in the future, ensuring that the path to wrestling glory in Fountain City Pro is both challenging and exhilarating.

A NEW WRESTLING PROMOTION IN KC: A CONVERSATION WITH OUR OWNER

I recently had the pleasure of sitting down with Chase Riley, the visionary owner of Fountain City Pro Wrestling. As the driving force behind Kansas City's burgeoning wrestling promotion, Riley is rapidly turning FCP into a new home for Kansas City wrestling enthusiasts. In our conversation, he shared insights into the promotion and his ambitious vision for its future.

What made you want to start a wrestling promotion?

“To provide Kansas City with more options for professional wrestling, I believe the talent in the Midwest, particularly Kansas and Missouri, but also the surrounding states, is on the same level as those in Texas, the West Coast, and the Upper East Coast, which are often highly touted as the staples in the bigger independent promotions. But I believe the wrestlers in our area stand up against those, and I want to give them an outlet to showcase their talent and abilities.”

What is your goal, moving forward, for Fountain City Pro?

“To be a destination for fans to come have fun and escape their everyday lives, and provide somewhere to be entertained on a Friday night by the best form of live entertainment, which I believe is professional wrestling”

Who are some of favorite wrestlers, outside of the independent scene?

“I believe Shawn Michaels is the best in-ring performer of all time. I’m also biased towards guys who are a lot like him, which may be seen as some odd choices: John Hennigan, also known as Johnny Nitro, Dolph Ziggler, Edge, and Chris Jericho, another obvious choice. A lot of those guys who did more than just sound really cool or look big and strong. They told stories inside the ring, and they told them beautifully.”

What’s been your favorite part about owning a wrestling promotion, thus far?

“Being able to share my ideas and my vision with my city.”

What, in your mind, sets Fountain City Pro apart from other independent promotions?

We want to provide a little bit of everything. Professional wrestling is subjective. You can like one thing and not like another, and that’s perfectly fine. I, personally love everything professional wrestling, and I want to provide a little bit of everything to the audience. Like with food, when you're craving a particular thing, you go and get that particular thing, but my idea for Fountain City Pro is to provide a buffet style promotion, where we can all come together and have a good time, no matter what style of wrestling you're craving."

How did you go about building the Fountain City Pro team?

"We'll start with Hartzell Gray, who was someone I really wanted involved due to his experience with his time as owner of Journey Pro, and his charismatic personality, which makes him a perfect fit both behind the scenes and on commentary.

Next, Michael Reed, he just has an ability to see a different side of things that I might sometimes, personally, have tunnel vision about.

Josh Elliot, Josh is my best friend and it was just a no-brainer. Josh is analytical, he crosses all my t's and dots all my i's. When we began our journey doing the I-70 Hot Tag Podcast, and then he expressed his interest in doing this promotion with me, I just knew the was no one else I wanted involved in this more than him. We started the I-70 Hot Tag Podcast to put a spotlight on the talent in Kansas and Missouri, and starting Fountain City Pro was just that same concept amplified. Kind of just the next evolution, if you will.

Kramer Sansone, who joins Hartzell on commentary, has a lot of experience working with media outlets, as well as, having been the co-commentator with Hartzell for Journey Pro. I remember being a fan of Journey Pro, and the energy he brought to it. Looking over at the commentary table, he'd be on his feet and you could just tell he carried such a passion for professional wrestling as he called the matches, and I really wanted to capture that for Fountain City Pro.

Mark Adams, our ring announcer, is a friend of Michael's. Michael had mentioned that he was a ring announcer, and when we went to do our first soundcheck at Ball Event Center, Mark grabbed the mic and let it rip, and we knew right away, he was our guy.

We found a really great production team to partner with in BSmith Enterprises. Brett and his team have done a phenomenal job. They're also very passionate about professional wrestling. Once we had the opportunity to talk to Brett about doing our production and helping us grow that platform, it was really another no-brainer decision.

And then, of course, the talent. Once again, built upon the core of showing what this area offers, we got ahold of some amazing wrestlers and officials, and started building this phenomenal roster.

IN THEIR OWN WORDS

THOUGHTS FROM FAN HUNTER D.

What was the standout match from Light It Up?

The standout match for me was Rey Leon vs. Kenny Alfonso. Just the chemistry between the two, coupled with the hot crowd and all the action in the ring, was what really made the match perfect. Fast-paced, high-flying, and hard-hitting.

Which performer(s) were you most excited to see?

Greg Jovi was definitely a treat to see, and really captured my imagination. Having seen him manage Moonshine Mantell and I Called Manders, the way he interacts, not only with his clients, but with the crowd, he just hooks you in, and draws you in to every last word he says.

Are there any aspects you'd like to see from FCP in the future?

Perhaps some wrestler backstories, maybe some training videos, how the performers keep their bodies in shape, and maybe even a look at how the facility and the ring gets put together in preparation for these events.

Have you had any memorable interactions related to FCP?

Do Chase Riley and Josh Elliott count?

I've had interactions with Greg Jovi before on Twitter. His inside baseball accounts of past events he's done bring so much insight as to what goes through his mind. I've also had a chance to ask him some questions, which he was real happy to answer, about becoming a pro wrestler or manager.

What sets Fountain City Pro apart from other promotions?

The atmosphere, the talent, the energy, excitement and electricity from the crowd. Everything about it is what makes Fountain City pro so special. What makes it special to me as a fan, is everything stated above, and more. You could not ask for much more than the kind of storytelling and matches that are coming out of this.

On behalf of Fountain City Pro, we extend our heartfelt thanks to the wrestlers, officials, fans, sponsors, production crew, and everyone else who has contributed to the success of our promotion.
